ABOUT ME

I am a third-year Bachelor of Science in Computer Science student at Cavite State University – Main Campus, with a strong passion for front-end web development. I am recognized for my leadership, punctuality, attention to detail, creativity, and ability to work effectively in teams. I am also known for being reliable, organized, adaptable, communicative, eager to learn, and detail-oriented, traits that help me thrive in both collaborative and independent environments. I take pride in producing clean, organized code and delivering visually engaging interfaces. Currently, I am continuously expanding my skills by exploring various programming languages and tools, particularly in the front-end development space, to further enhance my proficiency and build responsive, user-friendly web applications.
